

Hello, I am Bob
the millionaire!

I live in the small country of Norway
in the northern Europe.
I have a $ 100 000 home theatre.

I am following the extremely exciting series "Lost" on the Norwegian television channel TVNorge.

Arrrrgh! Episode 5 is over.
I can't wait a whole week!
I want more! NOW!

In the US they are at episode 7.
Hey, I am a millionaire. I can just go on the Internet and buy the next episodes!

www.abc.com...

Grrrr! I can't find where to buy the next episodes. Come on! You have the product, I have the money!

I'll try Google... ..nothing! Just unofficial fan sites. I'll have to call my friend Bill the Hacker. He knows this Internet thing.

I am on the Internet. I want to buy the next episodes of "Lost"

You can't

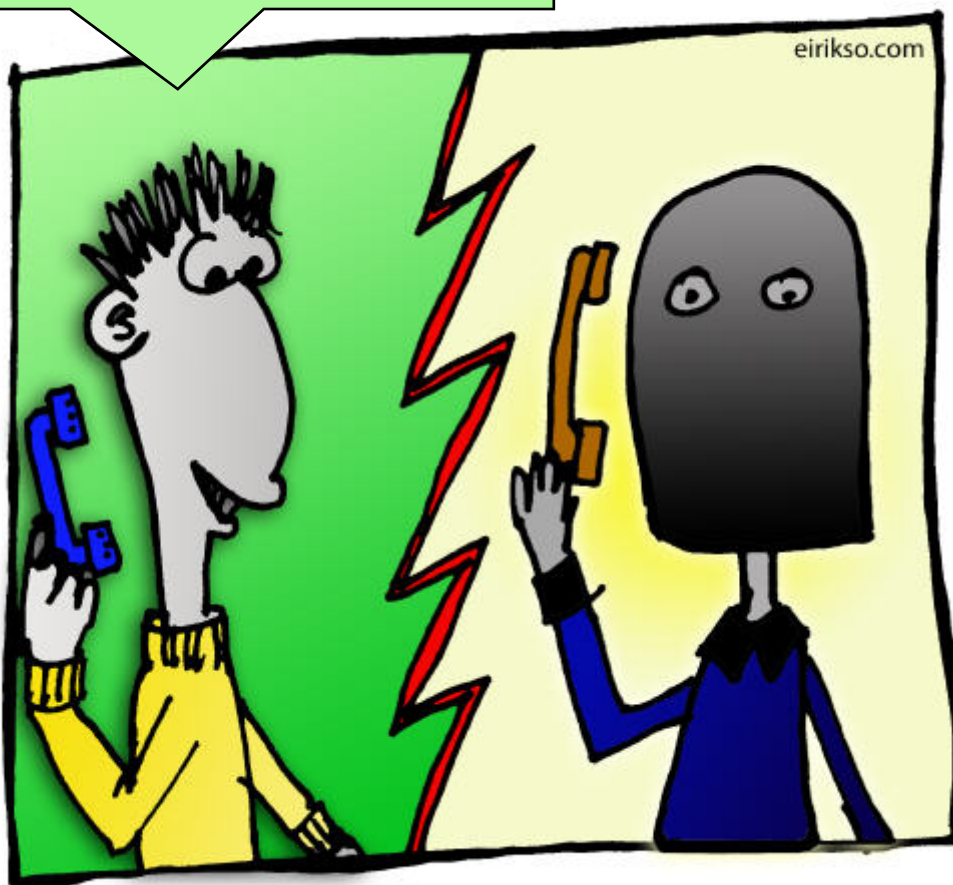

Money is no issue. You are saying that I can't get hold of the next episodes? They have been aired in the US you know.

I didn't say you can't get them. You just can't buy them.

Don't give me that pirate stuff.

It's the only way. The studios want you to be a pirate!

Episode 5 ended very exciting you know...

I feel bad about this. But the ending was just too exciting. The quality of the files will be crap, but I need the rest of the story!

WOW! The quality is amazing. I mean really amazing. I'll have to call Bill the Hacker. This is too good to be true.

Yes, they broadcast high definition in the US. You downloaded HD quality from the net.

The studios really really want you to be a pirate!

